

Tera Appoints Anthony Orantes as Advisory Director

August 30, 2016 – Summit, NJ -- Tera Group, Inc. the parent company of the TeraExchange derivatives trading platform, announced today the appointment of the CEO of EM4X, Anthony Orantes, as an Advisory Director. Orantes will draw on his vast international experience to provide the firm with strategic advice and insight on growth strategies with a particular focus on currencies. In addition, he will participate in select senior-level client events and conferences, as well as provide briefings on global financial trends to the firm's Board as appropriate. "We're delighted that Anthony has chosen to join Tera, with his experience and acumen our clients and staff will benefit immensely from his involvement," said Christian Martin, Chairman and CEO of Tera. "Our firms follow very similar "client-first" strategies with respect to their commercial offerings and share a common vision of the evolving market structure for market participants and the intersection of regulated derivative products. By providing our management team and clients with his unique global perspective, Anthony will greatly add to the knowledge and experience of our firm and accelerate certain corporate initiatives."

"In this era of fast paced change and financial markets evolving quickly, joining the team at TeraExchange is a win-win. They are a young derivatives exchange with a great management team, a broad product offering and deep regulatory knowledge," said Orantes. "I have already begun advising them on how to approach and capture the commercial opportunities that are emerging in the rapidly evolving global financial landscape, specifically in the currency derivative arena".

In May of 2016, TeraExchange announced that it became a fully registered Swap Execution Facility regulated by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission after being temporarily registered since September of 2013.

About Tera Group Inc.

Tera Group, Inc. owns TeraExchange LLC, a Swap Execution Facility (SEF) regulated by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission and provides market participants with access to Bitcoin derivatives, interest rate swaps, credit default swaps and non-deliverable forwards. TeraExchange is a global pioneer in the regulated derivatives marketplace and provides a multi-asset class platform for trading of an array of financial instruments.

About EM4X, Inc

EM4X, Inc., a New Jersey corporation with headquarters in Wall Street, is a market leader within the Spot and Non-Deliverable Forward (NDF) FX space. EM4X provides execution services and technology to the underserved Emerging and Frontier Markets around the world. The EM4X liquidity pool is comprised not only of traditional bank liquidity, but also unique and non-bank liquidity. Thus, resulting in further depth of liquidity within a given currency, as well as the opportunity for price improvement and discovery.